THE SOLDIERS' HOME.

Few can comprehend the import of this magnificent retreat for our brave, disabled soldiers. Situated some four miles from the beautiful city of Dayton, and overlooking the city and country for miles in all directions, embracing some 800 acres of fertile land which is in a high state of cultivation, and affording every pleasure and enjoyment necessary for its inmates, it is, indeed, the highest tribute of gratitude a grateful republic could bestow upon those who hesitated not to sacrifice their lives for their country's salvation.

The grounds immediately surrounding the headquarters, embracing about one hundred acres, are tastefully and beautifully arranged for the convenience and pleasure of the residents of the Home. As we enter the ground, the first place of interest is the church, a truly magnificant building, capable of seating from 500 to 800 persons, while it has been taxed to beautify and please the eye. The cushioned seats afford an easy resting place for the invalid worshippers to enjoy the teachings of the gospel of Jesus Christ A short distance beyond is the headquarters. On the first floor are located the necessary offices, and on the second floor a very large, commodious and elegant reading room. At one end is a library containing some 8000 vols., embracing almost every variety of works; at the other end is the Putnam Library of about 5000 vols., of rare and choice books, some volumes of which are worth $500 each. This library was donated by Mrs. Putnam of Boston, Mass, whose only son fell on the battle field. This library was largely owned by this son who was traveling in Italy to complete his education for a historian. And when the first news of the war reached him he immediately returned to his native country, enlisted as a soldier and sealed his devotion to his country by giving his life's blood to the cause of freedom. A life size likeness occupies a place in the midst of the library.

On the separate desks are newspapers from every state in the union. In this room is kept a register of all visitors. Among others I noticed the names of President Grant, Generals Sherman, Meade, and a large list whose names I do not at this moment recall. One signature, however, cannot be passed—"The noblest Roman of them all"—the brave Hooker. The pen held in the paralyzed hand of the right side and guided by the left hand, traced a name that will live while the country endures.

Extending on either side of this street stand the Barracks, or rather fine residences of the soldiers, and in the midst is the vast dining hall, capable of seating an army. A brief visit to the kitchens, bake room, pantry, laundry, &c., will richly compensate for time and effort. 700 loves or 1,400 pounds of bread are baked daily. Bushels of vegetables are required for a single meal. An abundance of everything is provided—no rations are served, but all are satisfied. Next in order is Music Hall with a large and commodious room on the first floor. This hall is provided with stage, scenery, etc., and capable of accommodating several hundred persons. Amusement Hall is also a beautiful building, containing billiard tables, bowling alley, etc., where there are a variety of amusements calculated to please, and pass the time pleasantly.

The chapel is near this last named building, and in the immediate vicinity of the Barracks. To the left of these is the grand parks for deer, elk, etc. Some thirty five or forty deers are kept and offered for sale. These are as fine specimens as we have ever seen, and very kind and docile. The price of each deer is $50. Near the keepers house are several fine eagles. To the left of this park are several fine lakes, fountains, etc. Boats are provided for all who desire to use them. In the midst of one of these lakes is a large field piece which gives the morning and evening salute. Passing toward headquarters there are numerous grottoes, water falls, ravines, etc., both natural and artificial. And situated in their midst is a large and well filled conservatory. Here plants of every variety and rarity can be obtained at reasonable rates, and judging from what we saw, we presume the citizens of Dayton are largely supplied from this place. A little to the right, upon an elevation are large numbers of mortars, howitzers, cannon, etc., kept in fine order—and a constant reminder of the implements of war so effectively used in the rebellion. As we have made the entire circle we arrive at the church. And in passing beyond and to the right are located the guard house, dead house, and truly magnificent hospital. Time will not admit of a visit to this institution; but judging from external appearances it is second to few in the country.

The afternoon being beautiful, the weather warm and delightful, the Band, consisting of some twenty pieces were in front of headquarters, discoursing such music as is seldom heard, for its variety and excellence.

The members of the band are, many of them, maimed, the absence of an arm or leg, paying the price of liberty gained and now by them enjoyed.

Having thus briefly noticed the grounds and buildings, let us look at the family residing at the Home. At present there are some 1350 members sustained without labor, care, or want—a home for our sick and wounded soldiers At our recent visit we found some of them enjoying the pleasant day in idleness, others in the reading room, music hall, amusement hall, in the parks, or roving over the grounds, enjoying the full pleasures of their retreat. No labor is required, yet should any one desire to labor he has the privilege of doing so at forty cents per day for eight hours labor. While at work for wages he must pay one dollar per week for board. To accommodate this class there are various manufactories, such as wagon shops, cabinet shops, cigar factories, &c, affording an opportunity for such as are disposed to earn something for themselves and their families. Of course the soldier's family is not permitted to live at the home, yet they are received as visitors, and many reside in Dayton, where the husbands and fathers can visit them daily; for the inmates of the home can go and come when they please, taking care not to be absent at evening roll call.

And now, after our brief but pleasant visit, we ask ourself whether unhappiness can exist where so much has been done for these unfortunate, yet fortunate soldiers? Nothing thus far have we seen to mar their happiness, excepting wounds and disease, which have been provided for, as far as it is possible to do so. And only on our return to the city does the skeleton in this home show itself. It is the same skeleton the world over. Its hideous form is seen everywhere. It reels up on the sidewalk, and falls into the gutter—the skeleton of the drunkard. The Soldiers' Home is no exception. At intervals along the road on our return we notice the drunken soldier Having received his pension he starts for the city, and rests not until the rum seller has his last dime, and he returns to his home a poor, penniless, drunken inebriate, to pass a few hours in the guard house, the penalty for his offense. This, and this only is the sad feature of an institution that causes a free people to shed a tear over the Soldiers Home. VISITOR.

THE TEACHER'S PLEASURES.

There is a vocation the most responsible that the world has ever produced; the noblest that has ever honored and dignified the heart of man. The name of this soul inspiring, heart enabling vocation, is Teaching. Its pleasures are "inscrutible and past finding out." Even now I am enjoying them to the full. 'Teacher, Bill Jones is pulling my hair.' With a pleasant school room filled with dutiful scholars, what can my avaricous heart want beside? 'Please, may I get a drink?' What a magnetic spell is thrown around me as sixty pairs of bright, joyous intelligent beaming eyes are fastened upon me, to catch every word of instruction that falls from my lips. 'Pete Munger tells a story, he says I stole his ink' Oh! that they would ever be so eager to gain instruction, and cause the heart of their teacher to expand, and his thoughts to float away in imagination, ('Sal Jones is scrouging me off the seat.'), to a land where all the inhabitants are children, free from guilt, ('She's smashing my bonnet all up.') The minister may talk of the pleasures he receives in the holy calling in which he is engaged. Philanthophists may exult in the great good they have done mankind, ('Phœbe Ann Bartlett's makin' mouths at me.') All these pleasures are as dew before the bright beams of the morning sun.

Composed with the real heart pleasures of the teacher—gouging, scrougen and pulling hair—in the deepest joy of my heart. I make use of this phrase which fills every teachers heart with joy unspeakable, viz: School is dismissed. Capt. J. R F.

A LITTLE FLIGHTY.

MR. EDITOR.—The time has come when it can be said of us what Felix said of Paul, "much learning makes thee mad." Certainly the people are crazy to think of changing hands at the helm of the ship of state for an untried set of men. If we had a Washington, Jackson or Lincoln resurrected, then we might talk of changing hands. Who lives that has been tried at the helm? No one would think of naming in the convention the Harrison's Taylor's vice presidents, then who can we get that we know will do any better than general Grant? Human nature is the same the world over, especially when it has access to money. Let us learn a lesson from a fox. A fox being chased by a pack of dogs ran into a thicket of briers to hide himself. There were two reasons why he should lie very still least a move should catch the eyes of the dogs, or his skin get toren on the point of a thorn, hence there was a chance for the flies to bathe their bills in his blood. A bird said to him, Shall I drive them away?' 'Oh, no,' said the fox, 'They are full, if you drive them away a more hungry set will come.' Let us say and do likewire. But they say Grant at the head of the administration steals money. But if that is so they are like the flies—they are full and ought to stay in. But let us suppose they have stolen ten millions of dollars worth of the nation's credit that Grant, by his cunning and skill, has retrived for the government. Their enemies determined to buy out their vitals and with a few shillings of gold had so reduced her credit her paper was nearly three per cent discount, and had we not Grant at the helm her paper might be to day at a discount of fifty per cent at the rate they were going. But Grant seeing the speculation in her paper thought he would try the governments luck on herself and he told the secretary of treasury to invest four millions of dollars in government bonds and greenbacks; and I am told by a gentleman merchant of this city who happened to be in New York on the day of Grant's investment. He said the men the day before worth from ten to fifteen million dollars who were beggars the next day. President Grant that day placed the iron heel of the nation on the throats of her enemies, and it has been crushing out their vitals ever since. There are many other reasons why general Grant should stay in the chair the next four years. One reason is, the people fear him. For example—President Buchannan in 1859 or 1860 spent thousands if not millions of dollars, to make Brigham Young obey the laws of the country, and Brigham laughed at him. President Grant spent a three cent stamp in a note to the governor of Utah, telling him to do his duty, and in three months Brigham and twelve of his head men were in jail. So with the rebel states when the ku klux were brought to an account necessary for his outfit, and it will do another four years, but a new man must have a new outfit at the expense of the people. A third reason—general Grant has the affairs of the nation politically and financially similar to that of a lady's house about the middle of May Mrs. —— and Mrs. —— are all engaged in renovating their houses. You will see their square and half round mohogany tables and many other choice pieces of furniture out under the shade tree, and about the middle of May they are upside down, not fit to receive company until the last of May. And so it is with general Grant at this time. But in the next four years he will have all things in readiness, financially at the rate he is now going and he will be ready to receive company.

WILLIAM PINN.

Mr. J. H. Thompson has well earned the sobriquet of Snow Shoe. For five winters he carried the U S mails, weighing sixty to eighty pounds, across the Sierra Nevada when the snow was from eight to thirty feet deep, being protected from sinking by the Norwegian snow skate He slept on the snow without blanket or over coat. The Norwegian snow skate is made of wood. It is ten feet long, four inches wide and an inch and a half thick in the middle, and a quarter of an inch thick at the ends. The front end is turned up about a foot, like a sled runner. With these snow shoes Mr. Thompson can run down a mountain a mile in a minute. From Placerville, California, to Nevada it is ninety miles. Several times persons have crossed with him as their guide, and while in many instances they have succumbed to the cold, notwithstanding their overcoats, blankets, and furs and liquors, he never suffered to any great extent. While on the route he never made use of liquor in any form, no matter how great the cold and exposure. He was better off without it. At the end of his route he sometimes used a little. He relates many interesting anecdotes of personal encounters with wolves, and of difficulties in digging down through the snow to get into station houses entirely covered with snow. Snow shoe Thompson is in Washington for the purpose of looking after a bill of relief. He was born in Norway in 1827, and came to this country at the age of ten years. He is a stout, well built man, light hair and blue eyes—a true type of the Scandinavian race.

An Irish paper concludes a biography of Robespiere with the following sentence: 'This extraordinary man left no children except his brother, who was killed at the same time.

ANECDOTE OF HENRY CLAY.

One of the most notable members of the twenty seventh congress was Thomas Marshall, of Kentucky. He came to Washington with a high reputation as an eloquent advocate and a rising lawyer. He was a fine scholar, of elegant culture, lively imagination and good logical powers He spoke with fluency and animation, and always commanded the attention of the house. But his habits were erratic, and he was absent from the capitol nearly half the time. There was an old family feud between Mr. Clay and the Marshalls, and the representative from Louisville partook of the animosity of his relative who had met Mr. Clay in single combat. Marshall was decidedly opposed to the bank bill which the president had vetoed, and in a conversation on the avenue attacked it in a strain of argument and ridicule of the most amusing character.

'Brave, Tom!' said a bystander, 'I never heard anything better in my life. Why don't you make that speech in the house? There is not a man there who can answer it.'

'Why don't I sure enough? Do you know what the people of Kentucky sent me to congress for? Not to act upon my own judgment, not to carry out their wishes, but to vote at the dictation of Henry Clay. There's a collar around my neck, bearing the inscription, 'Henry Clay, his dog''

WASHINGTON'S DOG.

Washington, it is stated, was out hunting in the Virginia forests, accompanied with his favorite hound Governor. A heavy storm of rain and mist coming up he lost his way, his powder was rendered useless, and to add to the perils and inconvenience of his situation, he found that he had not his pocket compass with him. In this sorry plight he wandered in circles, as people do who are lost in the bush, wetted, weary and hungry, for he had no food save wild berries. He was almost exhausted when a happy thought occurred to him. Tying his powder flask and pocket flask to his dog's tail, he fastened his long sash around the animal's neck, holding one end in his hand. Then he planted a tremendous kick in the dog's lumbar region. The animal was so completely surprised at this treatment that he stood for a moment paralyzed; then wheeling about, he struck a bee line for home. It is a curious fact that any sudden alarm or attack will quicken a dog's perceptive faculties, render more subtle his scent and powerful his memory, and induce him, like Marco Bozzaris, to strike for his home. So the dog fled, and Washington followed desperately, over stumps, through bogs into briars, until finally the sash gave way. With one tremendous yell, Washington scared the frantic animal, the terrible banging and clattering of the flask at his heels added to his speed, and in a moment he was out of sight. After a hearty laugh at the incident, Washington leisurely marched in the direction the dog had taken. It was easy to do so by observing the mossy side of the trees, the direction of the longer branches and other signs with which an experienced hunter is acquainted. It was not long before he reached a clearing and was once more in safety. But, he adds, the dog, once faithfully attached to him, could not to the day of its death, endure the sight or even hear his voice without relapsing into an agony of terror.—Parton's Life of Washington.

JOSH BILLINGS' PRAYER.

From too many friends, and from things at luce ends, good Lord deliver us.

From a wife who don't luv us, and from children who doant look like us, good Lord deliver us.

From snaix in the grass, from snaix in the hutes, from torch light procesions and from all new rum, good Lord deliver us.

From pack peddlers, from young folks in luv, from old aunts without money, from kolera morbus, good Lord deliver us.

From welth without charitee, from pride without sense, and all rich relations, good Lord deliver us.

From nuspaper tels, and from pills that ain't fisick, from men who flatter and from women that faint, good Lord deliver us.

From virtue without ignorance, from butter that smells, and from cats that are coarting, good Lord deliver us.

From polytitions pray, and from santes who tipple, from ri koffi, red herring and all grass widders, good Lord deliver us.

From folks that won't laff, and from them who giggle, from tite hutes, easy mirth and ram mutton, good Lord deliver us.

A couple of bachanalian friends fought over the flowing bowl in Darke county, Ohio, lately, and before the fracas was over, one of the combatants killed the other. His widow has sued the liquor seller for ten thousand dollars damages, and the wife of the slayer has levied for five thousand. Whether two men who would gather at the groceries, drink and fight until one of them was killed, were worth fifteen thousand dollars to their families, is a question for the Ohio courts to settle.

He is the richest man who is content with what he has.

He who takes the best care of today has the least fear of to-morrow.

The worst misfortune is to be unable to bear misfortune.

There are now a hundred and thirty persons serving out sentences of imprisonment in Massachusetts, for liquor selling.

The oldest paper in the world is published at Pekin; it is a weekly, printed on silk, and is said to have been commenced more than 2,000 years ago.

Endeavor to keep your consciences always soft and sensitive. If but one sin force its way into that part of the soul and is suffered to dwell there, the road is paved for a thousand iniquities.

An exchange prints a chapter of the Bible without credit. How on earth are publishers to know where it came from?

"Hunting the tiger, gentleman," observed an English officer, relating his East India experience to a friendly circle at a London club, "is capital sport—nothing better—except when the tiger takes it into his head to hunt you; then it is apt to become too exciting."

"Professor," said a student in pursuit of knowledge concerning the habits of animals, "why does a cat, while eating, turn her head first one way and then another?" "For the reason," replied the professor, "that she cannot turn it both ways at once."

The New National Era, of Washington says: 'Mrs. Charlotte Ray, the colored lady law graduate from Howard university, was admitted to practice in the District of Columbia courts on the 6th ult. She is the first lady admitted to practice in the district.'

'Will you have the kindness to hand me the butter before you?' asked one politely of an ancient maiden. 'I am no waiter, sir.' 'Is that so? I thought from your appearance you had been waiting a long time.'

A little Danbury girl, when asked by her mother about suspicious little bites in the sides of about a dozen choice apples, answered, "Perhaps, mamma they have been frost bitten, it was so cold last night.' The mother retreated.

A medical friend in a neighboring city has a very lazy horse. A gentleman having borrowed him one day determined to try his speed, and in driving past the doctor's office developed a gait that was surprising to Billy, the office boy, who ran in, crying, excitedly: 'Doctor, your horse has won a race!' 'Yes, Billy; but he's not at a funeral.'

"When a stranger treats me with want of respect," said a poor philosopher, "I comfort my self with the reflection that it is not myself that he slights, but my old and shabby hat and cloak, which, to say the truth, have no particular claim to adortaion. So, if my hat and coat choose to fret about it, let them; but it is nothing to me."

The deliberate manner in which Chicago is being rebuilt is thus illustrated in an exchange: "Let me see," said a Chicago hose mason reflectively to a burnt out merchant, "have got to put up a block for Brown this morning, and a dwelling house this afternoon for Smith. Yes, we can jerk up your store this noon by takin' one half of an hour's noonin.'

A piece of deception was attempted in the Ohio legislature. A petition for a modification of the Adair liquor law was presented by Mr. Haag, which he represented containing 46, 723 names. The House committee on temperance concluded they would be better satisfied if they would count the names. When counted they found to number just 15,190, or over thirty thousand less than Mr. Haag thought to make the House believe. This is democracy in a practical sense.

Mr. Julius Sumner, of Akron, says he rode upon the first passenger car ever drawn upon a railroad in the United States; that he rode upon the first steamboat that ever navigated Lake Erie; and that he was the first man to build a rolling mill and nail factory in the State of Ohio. These are remembrances of which a man may well be proud.

The man who has begun to live and work by artificial stimulant, never knows where he stands, and can never count upon himself with any certainty. He lets into his castle a servant who becomes the most tyranical of masters; He may resolve to turn him out, but will find himself reduced to the condition in which he can neither do with nor without him. The use of stimulant to the brain power brings on a disease, in whose paroxysms a man is no more his own master than in the ravings of a fever, a disease that few have the knowledge to understand, and for whose manifestations the world has no pity.

Imitating Biddy.—Little Lu was left in care of her aunty one day; soon she was missing; aunty looked all around, calling loudly; but no one came. Growing alarmed, she went to the barn; there sat Lu on the floor, with hay nicely arranged about her winking and blinking; aunty went up, and laid her hand upon her arm, upon which the four year old 'pocked' at her!

Surprised at this strange performance, aunty said earnestly:

'Come, Lu, you must go with me to the house!'

'You do on, aunty,' exclaimed Miss Lu, 'I will turn as soon as I gets my egg laid.'—Galaxy.

Massillon, Wednesday, May 1.

After a session of four months the Ohio legislature adjourned on Monday last. Although the liquor party tried hard to effect a change in the law they failed—and in the matter of districting the state, as far as we can ascertain, the Stanton bill, as it is called, placing Columbiana Carroll, Stark and Tuscarawas counties in the 17th congressional district prevailed—Jefferson now belongs to the 16th district Messrs Wales and Bowman returned to their homes Monday night.

In the last report we published on the recent petitions and remonstrances to the legislature on the liquor questions, the number of names for changing the law was 76,930, against 100,969. Since then we are assured on good authority that the big liquor petition from Cincinnatti, purporting to have 46,860 names, is slightly incorrect. An accurate count gives it 15,190 names. Then instead of the temperance party having a majority of 24,033, as published last week our majority is 55,203—for the grogites made the little blunder of claiming 31,170 more names than an examination warranted 31,170 taken from 76,930 leaves 45,760, the whole grog force on the petitions, so the right is more than two to one ahead.

Iowa has abolished hanging. In a brief law of some ten or a dozen lines that state has wiped out this relic of other days, and now confines the murderer for life in the state prison, giving no chance for release, except through the intervention of the state legislature. The "Cursed be Canaan" has been disposed of in this country—the next thing will be the abrogation of the Mosaic declaration, "Whoso sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed." These vengeful maxims may in the past have been necessary, but a higher civilization is wiping them out, and these old dogmas are to be abrogated with other relics of the barbarian ages.

Thousands of our citizens will remember with almost heart rending vividness the circumstances that inspired the nine o'clock ordinance. On the 20th of January last Geo. Hofaker, a quiet, sober, industrious citizen was murdered—and proof piled on proof established the fact that this murder was prompted by liquor. Of course the orderly, quiet citizens of Kendall, where the death occured, were alarmed for their safety, and they petitioned to have a nine o'clock ordinance. It was enacted, and scarce has its beneficent effects been commenced when an effort is made to repeal it. That ordinance is sealed with the blood of a citizen. A widowed woman with a helpless child is one of the results of that murder, and two mothers of unfortunate sons, who were the means of that innocent man's taking off, now bemoan their disgrace and imprisonment. The query may will be asked, Who wants this law repealed? The answer is ready—it is the grogsellers and liquor drinkers of Massillon. A large majority of our community wish it to stand, but the party that sold the liquor which caused the taking off a citizen want sixteen to eighteen hours a day in which to carry on their infernal traffic. If this is granted whose turn to lose life from some drunken rowdy will come next? We hope our town fathers will think well before they unleash the fierce and unsated hunters and spillers of human gore. If the ordinance is repealed the end is not yet.

It is not unusual for young editors and young preachers to imagine that they are filling positions of vast importance, and that the progress of the world in the right direction rests, in a great measure, on their efforts. Professionals in both these departments are very apt to aim to be somewhat sensational—especially does the juvenile editor,—rather quietly, of course—expect the big dailies and heavy weeklies to quote his lucubrations liberally, as they are so original, and so well said. But some how the the great world of newspaperdom don't seem to appreciate these gifts in the new fledgeling, and a large portion of his smart sayings fall to the earth still born, and are not even repeated by the little papers. True, he may blunder on a pithy idea occasionally and it may scintillate for a moment, like the evanescent gleam of a lightning bug, but darkness soon follows, and the concussion is forgotten. Time—the years, however, will teach the editor of only mode rate perceptions that the longer he lives the more he finds out. His juvenile combativeness and self consequence are modified and mollified as experience and observation teach him—if teachable—that he must learn while he lives; and to learn all that is needed to be known in newspaperdom will require that a man reach a great age or learn very fast Having rather vague notions about things the new editor pitches into somebody very promiscuously, and it don't take long for him to find out that he gets into trouble, so begins to conclude that playing editor is not what it is cracked up to be. These little incidents teach him caution and wisdom; and what little we have seen of this sort of life we conclude that if a man behaves himself prudently he will be respected—if not he wont. Not having been in the preaching business we shall not attempt to carry out the parallel—some D D may do that if he sees proper.

TIT FOR TAT.—Ed. Independent: Already the enemies of the city law, closing all places for selling liquor at 9 o'clock are becoming sensitive, and have commenced a warfare against those who have signed a remonstrance against its repeal, and in a spirit of maddened liberality refuse to patronize such signers. Supposing this spirit is carried out, who would be the gainer? Let us place on the right hand the friends of this law and we have the following classes, viz: 1st, The families of drunkards; 2, The fathers and mothers of the young men who are fast sinking into inebriety and rowdyism; 3, The families of moderate drinkers; 4th, Those who desire morality more than immorality, 5th, Every live Christian of whatever denomination, and 6th, The lovers of virtue, purity, honesty and happiness.

On the left hand we have the drunkard who has already sold all that is noble and good, and received in return every vice in the calendar of sin. 2d, The husbands who have forsaken virtuous homes for the haunts of vice; 3d, The young men who have started for a drunkard's grave; 4th Those who encourage immorality; 5th, Those church members who think more of money than they do of a pure Christian character, and 6th, The man who can drink when he pleases and let it alone when he pleases, but would sell his own soul and the happiness of his neighbor for money.

In these six cases I believe I have included all; and the right hand class will number five to the left hand one. So that if this division is carried out, the friends of liquor will find themselves vastly in the minority.

But Mr. Editor, there is a principle in this, superior to everything else. Must a person's freedom of thought be brought into subjection to another's even on civil and political questions? To succeed in business must a person sacrifice every principle of manhood? If such is the case the sooner it is known the better. Respectfully, A. B.

On last Thursday Cooper, the man who murdered another man at Cleveland some months ago, was hung in the jail yard of that city. Something like one hundred witnesses to the execution were present. The Leader states that the rope used on this occasion previously choked to death seven other victims. The time is coming when this hanging business will cease, and the sooner the better for the credit of our civilization. Other states have abolished capital punishment, and Ohio will come to the same conclusion before many years. It is a relic of barbarism—it is wreaking vengeance, when a higher authority their human law says, "Vengence is mine, and I will repay."

Mr Traphagan, our energetic bill poster, has fixed up an immense bulletin board, nearly two squares in length, on Main and Hill streets, which is now ornamented with the huge posters of Rosston, Springer & Henderson's great show, that is to visit this place on the 13th inst. Its hundreds of gorgeous pictures, with every shade of color that the printing art can combine, beats the celebrated Dolly Varden style—at least in size—and is quite an attraction to that part of town. It looks as if business was working up street—at least the show business; and the pictures are seen by hundreds daily That part of the show is free. Mr. T. has done another good thing, and that is, offered a reward for mutilating bills which he puts up. In almost every community a few examples of legal suasion ought to be enforced against the too common practice of mutilating and tearing down posters, and we hope Mr. T. will give the perpetrators the full benefit of the law.

Very recently, the Alliance Monitor says, Father Lindersmith, pastor of the Catholic church of that place, imparted communion for the first time, to them, of twenty four young people, and at the same time they took the total abstinence pledge. Mr. Lindersmith has been a faithful temperance man from his youth, and sets a good example.

Mr. Charles Stowe, the gentlemanly agent of Rosston, Springer & Henderson's great show, has left us his notice of the exhibition. Much as seems to be claimed for the collection, it is, from accounts we see, not over stated by the terms used in the advertisement. Should the day prove a pleasant one the prospect is we shall have a large gathering in town on that day.

Some of our exchanges say that the Cincinnati Enquirer, the democratic organ of Ohio, has three planks in its political platform. The first is, Beat Grant. The second is, Beat Grant. And the third is like the first and second. Bad for Grant, but somehow he is hard to beat.

One day last week a liquor seller boasted that they would have the nine o'clock ordinance repealed, giving as a reason that they had the money to do it. Is that the game they are playing? If there is any buying of votes to accomplish this business our community will be very apt to ascertain who has been purchased, and what amount of blood money was the consideration. We hope there is not a member of the council but who will scorn to be used for this purpose, influenced solely by dollars and cents. A victory gained by such means would be like the perpetual gnawing of a vulture on the living vitals, and its rottenness a sure precursor of its early doom.

It is gratifying to the many friends of Bro. Williams, pastor of the Presbyterian church, to know that his health is so far improved as to have been able to preach the two last Sundays. Still he is feeble, and has to observe great care to avoid a return of the troubles to which he has been subjected.

Farmers being very busy just now make things comparatively quiet in town part of the time. But there is a goodly number of strangers about these days, for the railroad men are quite numerous here, and wherever they are there is life and animation.

To repeal the nine o'clock ordinance is an attempt to legislate backward. It will be looked upon as a triumph—transient tho' it be—of the fifty-three grog shops which now curse our community with their polluting streams. We hope the (cold) water works of our community will not be subjected to the liquor works by the debauching influence of such a steam as is generated by the froth of rotten barley or the benzine of forty rod whisky. Cold water and its works are too useful in putting out the fires of the incendiary, or the brimstone fires of the still, to be disgraced permanently by even a temporary triumph of alcohol.

Chicken combats, it is related, took place over at Canton last Sunday, on which occasion Massillon was represented, by both flying and non flying bipeds. Which came out first in the contest we have not heard. It is a disgraceful business.

In consequence of the crowded condition of our columns for this and the next issue we are under the necessity of leaving out a portion of advertisements and notices, but we expect to make all right by filling out the number of insertions contracted for.

TEMPERANCE.—Rev. James A. Davidson Grand Lodge lecturer for I. O. G. T. of Ohio, addressed large audiences at Canal Fulton and Lawrence on Sabbath last. He lectures at Youngstown this evening.

"The Most Popular Amusement and its Great provider.—It is the province of live newspapers to accept established facts and to govern themselves according'y, without indulging in profitless speculation—as to either the necessities or absurdities in which they originate, and among those to be thus entertained is the positive one that tent exhibitions have become, with all classes, the most popular and generally attended of all amusements. Undoubtedly there is in the collection of wild animals and the dashing, daring feats and fun of the ring, much that insensibly and but powerfully appeals to our national characteristics of curiosity and restless energy. Among the greater exhibitions which minister most successfully to the tastes and preferences, the Great Mastodon caravan, menagerie, museum, circus and Ben Abdallah's troup of Bedouin Arabs, announced to appear here on Monday, May 15th, undoubtedly holds the foremost rank as a monster accumulation of many and diverse novelties and standard attractions. It presents separately, in amplest measure, the instructive and rational amusement of an unusually extensive and complete menagerie of rare and huge animals, a museum of attractive antiquities, statues, mechanical achievements and curiosities, a circus company of mammoth proportions and world wide fame; and last, but not least, the celebrated troupe of Arab gymnasts, who make their first appearance here, are the only performers of their nationality and faith in the country, and present a most astonishing programe of entirely original feats of strength and skill. They appear everywhere in public, and an interview with them will satisfy the most skeptical, that they are genuine worshippers of Allah and true sons of the Desert.

It will be remembered that the menagerie, museum and circus are in separate tents, that those preferring to patronize the two former can do so without the slightest association with the latter; and at their leisure either before or while the ring performances are in progress. At night the tents and the approaches thereto will be brilliantly lighted with gas.

Mr. EDITOR—A communication appeared in your paper some weeks past, of a complimental character, suggesting the use of my name as a candidate for congress, in this district. To this friend and all others in sentiment with him, I hereby desire to return my warmest thanks.

The way in which candidates for office generally resort to secure their nominations, I cannot adopt consistently with my self respect, and that due the people. I desire it to be understood that I make no charges against any gentlemen who are candidates for congress.

I am in favor of such reform in the civil service as will secure capable and honest men for office.

In my judgment we have a better currency than we ever had, and all that we want is to adopt a policy that will gradually bring our legal tender par with coin.

At one time it took two dollars and eighty cents to buy one dollar in gold, the past year about one dollar and ten cents. If by contraction and the natural growth of our population and wealth, our paper money has appreciated from 180 to 10, can we not by avoiding further expansion, and with a little further contraction, so adjusted as not to affect injuriously business or the price of labor, bring the greenbacks par with coin, this would check the mania of speculation in our commercial cities, prevent the locking up of greenbacks, which increases the rate of interest by producing periodical times of stringency in our money market and affecting injuriously the whole business and productive industry of the country, to benefit a few unprincipled capitalists and speculators at the expense of the people.

The tariff perhaps is the most important question for the next congress to settle: this subject is such that I cannot be expected to give extended views. I will only say I am in favor of collecting the most of our revenue as heretofore by a tax on foreign imports, so adjusted as to give protection to all the different industries and laborers of the country, as far as possible without taxing any one class for the benefit of another, keeping in view the mischief of sudden and great changes in our revenue system.

I am in favor of economy in the expenses of our government, in cultivating friendship by the methods of peace as far as practicable for a good and strong government, with all sections of our country, and opposed to the extravagant manner in which the public lands have been given to corporations,

I am and always have been a republican, and attached to the great party that carried us successfully through the war, and thus far protected the honor and credit of the nation unsullied in the future, and paying our war debt, principal and interest, to the last dollar.

I think our party leaders have made mistakes common to those of other great parties, in refusing to tolerate differences of opinion, thereby creating disaffection in our ranks, which I hope will be healed within our own organization.

Should my fellow citizens be satisfied with my views and principles as expressed, and honor me with a nomination for congress, I will consider it a high compliment, and will not feel at liberty to decline.

How we used to be Physicked.

Who does not remember the time when spring purgation was considered indispensable to summer health? No matter for why faces, the inevitable salts and senna, rhubarb, calomel and jalap, must be administered. These "Spring medicines," the youngsters were told, were to keep them hale and hearty during the summer. We know now this a fallacy, that new vigor not depletion, is what is required at the commencement of the summer solstice. As a preparation for the enervating effects of oppressive summer weather, a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is highly expedient. This famous vegetable preparation has three prominent properties: It renovates purifies and regulates all the functions of the body It is composed exclusively of pure vegetable productions, viz, the essential principle of Monongahela Rye, and the most efficacious tonic and alterative roots, barks, and gums known to medical botanists. Hence, it is an absolutely safe medicine, and no tincture of the Pharmacopœia can compare with it either in purity, or in the variety of its objects, and its comprehensive results Happily for mankind, the theory that it was necessary to prostrate a patient in order to cure him, is forever exploded, and the true philosophical doctrine, that vigor is the great antagonist of disease, has taken its place. Hostetter's Bitters is an invigorant, and hence it is the proper medicine for the feeble at this most trying season of the year.

Be sure that you obtain the genuine article, as there are innumerable vile imitations in the market. Look to the ornamented stamp, the engraved label, and the name blown in the glass. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is sold in bottles only.

The Episcopal dime society will meet at house of Mr. George Kelley, on Friday evening, May 3d.

Since the general thaw soda fountains are beginning to play, and as we have several of them, in various parts of the city, the probability is, they will all be more or less patronized.

Busy days are these on the canal, for squads of men are at work in this vicinity with shovels, wheelbarrows and other implements, removing the superfluous material from the ditch, and in a very few days navigation will be open and active.

Among the tastefully and elegantly fitted up places for offices and business generally the dental rooms of Dr. Chidester is prominent and it is almost a temptation to go there and have teeth pulled or put in, just to get a chance to see the place.

For violating the 9 o'clock ordinance last Saturday night, we are informed that N. Sibila was arrested and fined $25, on Monday last. There was some talk of him appealing to a higher court, and repudiating the payment of the fine, but the ordinance requires the fine to be paid, or the violator to go to the calaboose. The former alternative was chosen—but if the accused wishes to take his case to a higher tribunal we hope he will do so. Others have tried the same experiment, but they have not been successful yet in overturning a town ordinance against liquor selling elsewhere.

Bankers and that class of business men keep open from 9 a. m., to 3 p. m.—6 hours. Professional men have their hours for seeing patients and clients. Our merchants close their stores at 8 p. m. The grogsellers have till 9 p. m. As they begin work early, say at 6 a. m., they have 15 hours, but not satisfied with this they want the whole of the day and all the night in which to carry on their work of making drunkards. What say the friends of order and sobriety to this?

On Sunday Clement Russell, Esq., was quite seriously sick, but with the close attention of Drs. Metz and Reed we are gratified to learn that the patient is improving.

One of the good features connected with the coming show of the 13th inst, is the fact so the agent informs us, that the company have no drinking men in their employ, nor will they permit a drunken man to enter their exhibition. This is a very decided improvement in the show business, and is a favorable indication of the advancement of temperance principles.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE.—Rev. James A. Davidson, of Cleveland, a Temperance Lecturer of many years' experience, will address the citizens of Massillon at the Good Templars' Hall on Thursday evening, May 2d. Mr. Davidson is sanctioned and endorsed by the Grand Worthy Chief Templar of Ohio, and also carries with him very complimentary testimonials from Officials of Temperance Associations in the various States in which he has labored We bespeak for the Lecturer a full attendance. The lecture will commence at 8 o'clock.

From what we read of the Dolly Varden style, now so much blowed about, it seems to consist of dry goods ornamented with such gorgeous flowers as grow on hollyhocks, sunflowers, pumpkin vines, with little variations of smart weed and elder berry blossoms, to add to the beauty and finish of this and similar combinations of nature grouped together by the skilled hand of art. This is not designed for criticism, but is merely a historical record, as we understand it, of the vagaries of that staid goddess, Fashion, so devoutly worshipped by her many admirers.

A stabbing affray took place on last Monday evening at the village of Brookfield, where it is reported that Dr. Gardner cut some one—we have not ascertained the name—somewhat severely. What the nature of the difficulty was which led to this result we are not informed, but it is barely possible that major general whisky was connected in some way.

To day the Cincinnati convention, consisting of liberal republicans, convenes at that place. From many indications the attendence will be large. The question is, whether the elements composing it can be fused into one homogeneous political mass We shall soon know how that is. Mr. Brewster of this place, fully expected to go but business prevented.

Thomas Fawcett, one of the holders of mortgages, bought E. Ball's agricultural works, at Canton, one day last week, for $85,000. If not sold soon the works will continue in active duty.

The next quadrennial conference of the M. E. church, meets to day at Brooklyn N. Y., and will probably remain in session a month. It is made up of something like forty annual conferences, and consists of 292 ministerial and 129 lay delegates. Rev. Mr. Endsley, of Canton, we understand, represents this district. It is the first time lay delegates appear in that body. Some six or eight new bishops are to be elected. For these facts we are indebted to bro Allen of the Steubenville Gazette. The choosing of so many bishops at once is unusual in that denoinination. Recently two if not three bishops died, and the church is rapidly growing.

At Akron, on last Friday, the Odd Fellow brethren, it is said, had a very large gathering, some hundreds, perhaps thousands, of the order being present and taking part. Massillon was represented by a number of the brethren.

Last week we put off the thaw of our hydrants, on this side of Main street to about the first of August, or possibly it might come by July 4th. Friday last was a hot day, the mercury living somewhere in the eighties, and on that night the icy chains were thawed so that water can freely, where the plugs are not bursted.

The ladies mite society of the M. E. church will meet at the residence of Mr. George Harsh, Prospect st, on Monday evening, May 6th. All are invited. Refreshments.

An hour or so was very pleasantly spent on last Sunday in visiting the M. E. church Sunday school.

Most or all of the churches here have these schools, and seem to be prospering, but from what we saw it appears that that of the M. E church is the most largely attended—something over 300 persons being connected with it. Bro. Allman is the superintendent, and he fills the position admirably, and is sustained by a large corps of efficient teachers, a large majority of them ladies, all of whom are devoted to the work. By singing reading, questions and answers and other appropriate exercises, they manage to keep up a perrennial interest in the school, and for this reason it is a live institution, full of vigor, almost amounting to enthusiasm, so that every member seems to look for the Sunday gathering with eagerness, and wish that Sunday might come twice a week.

In the last Rep & Rep Col. Ball announces himself a candidate for congress—first, because he wants it, secondly, because he is out of business and lastly he thinks he can fill the place as well as any other man of his capacity. His platform is that he is as good a republican as any other man, sympathises with the working man, is a Methodist in religion, a temperance man all through, and in favor of women voting. Says he has no money to spend to go about electioneering or buying votes, but asks that if he can be forgiven for former political errors—if guilty of any—he will do the best he can for those who trust in him. Perhaps the colonel's political prospects are not very flattering, but it is certain that no one can accuse him with a lack of candor and an honest expression of his position and views.

Friday evening the street lamps were lit up, which proved a decided advantage to the city. As both furnaces are out of blast it is desirable to have more light than a cloudy sky sheds forth. It is said the main pipe is too small to permit sufficient gas to pass through, so larger ones are being put in place—now that water is out of the canal—which will be an improvement toward the enlightenment of the city. Stone coal is very black, but when properly manipulated it emits a very white light. Light will not shine from a dark place, but it can be brought from a dark substances.

At a meeting of some of the friends of temperance in Good Templars hall, Monday evening, Rev. W. C. Dean was appointed chairman and Joel Core, secretary. The business was to a mame committee in each ward to circulate remonstrsnces against the repeal of the 9 o'clock ordinance, which was attended to. Also, to appoint two gentlemen to represent the remonstrants before the council, provided that body gives its consent. Dr. J. H. Johnson and J. K. Russell were named for that purpose.

Our cotemporary who furnishes Massillon locals for the Canton Democrat, in referring to the purchase, by the railroad company, of Mr. Reed's land, states that the purchase is to furnish a place for depot and other buildings used for railroad purposes. The city council have authorized the opening of Cherry street to that point, which will make the depot in reasonable distance from the business portion of the city. On many accounts this will be a good move, but in making depots we think the experience of all who travel very plainly suggests that where there are different roads these buildings should be as near together as possible and maybe this is what is contemplated and will some day be consummated by the different roads passing along here. Who knows?

That colored band, which was formed some months ago, but during the long cold winter was quiet, is again tooting in the evenings.

Our neighbors of the Akron Beacon on last Friday night were wholly burned out—the building and entire establishment being consumed by fire This is the fourth time the office took fire, and it made thorough work. Although the loss is heavy—about half ($5,000) was covered by insurance—the company will promptly go to work to rebuild, and put up a more substantial edifice than the one destroyed. Such enterprise cant be annihilated by fire. The daily Beacon, however, did not lose an issue as the Times neighbors kindly loaned all the material necessary to keep right along.

St John's, German church was struck by lightening last evening, but not seriously injured.

Gardner has been caught.

Prof Hutter, as will be seen by his advertisement in to day's paper, has opened a school for teaching penmanship. His experience and success heretofore will, no doubt, secure him success.

Editorial notices are so common that it is almost impossible for an editor to express his honest opinion of the merits of any article without being suspected of interested motives. This fact, however, shall not deter us from saying what we think of a new addition to the Materia Medica to which our attention has been recently directed. We refer to Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters, a remedy which is making its way into more families just now than all the other advertised medicines put together. There seems to be no question about the poteney of its tonic and alterative properties, while it possesses the great negative recommendation of containing neither alcohol nor mineral poison. That it is a specific for indigestion, biliousness, constipation, and many compaints of nervous origin, we have reason to know; and we are assured on good authority that as a general invigorant, regulating and purifying medicine, it has no equal, It is stated that its ingredients, (obtained from the wilds of California,) are new to the medical world; and its extraordinary effects certainly warrant the conclusion that it is a compound of agents hitherto unknown If popularity is any criterion, there can be no doubt of the efficiency of the Vinegar Bitters, for the sale of the article is immense and continually increasing. 4w

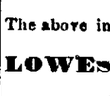
CELEBRATED

Horse and Cattle Powders.



This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDER, LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite—gives a smooth and glossy skin—and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine-looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c, this article acts as a specific. By putting from one half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

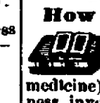
MANHOOD:

How Lost How Restored.



Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of spematorrhea, or seminal weakness, involuntary seminal losses, impotency, physical and mental incapacity, impediments to marriage, etc.; also consumption, epilepsy and fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price in a sealed envelope, 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid, on receipt of six cents or two post stamps.
